Notes:

A new year ... and according to one vendor, we're about to see more tape than anyone can imagine. How does 10 (or more) per month sound? Like overload, maybe? Manga Entertainment is still shifting schedules around, so things are still less stable than we'd like (but their stuff is pretty good, so we're not complaining). For all those fans who screamed for it, the second Laserdisc volume of Macross Plus is now available. Also in the screaming department, the first of the Ranma OVA series arrives this month in subtitled "collector's" form, and the Urusei Yatsura TV series continues after a long absence. If adult tapes are your thing, La Blue Girl 3 ships, and it looks slightly better than the first volumes (ie: it looks less like a video game), and there's always the new F3. The big news, though, has to be the Street Fighter II movie. After months of waiting, it's finally showing up.

Also, we're told that sometime around the end of January we'll have our Netscape Commerce server online with an electronic catalog. This will support secure online transactions. More on this as it develops, but you can always stop by the news page on our web site for current information.

JEFF'S PICK OF THE MONTH

Based on the first three installments, I'd opt for the final installment of Armitage the Third. If it's anything like the others, it should be great. Also using that theory, I'd probably take a look at the new F3 from AD Vision ... the first one was a lot of fun.
